

2020 Christiania Workshop, Copenhagen

A 48 hour camp style workshop with students from the School of Architecture in Copenhagen. We experimented with body gestures as a way to communicate how spaces feel. This seemed to work surprisingly well.

After an exploration of Christiania the students would gradually form an agenda and use this to formulate questions for local residents.

Finally the students would work and present building strategies for a new house for the researcher in residency (CRIR) organisation.
